Playing from the heart:

Bingo game benefits youth who needs transplant

By Steve Marschke

For Michael Phillips, every little bit helps – and a strong showing on Sunday at a West Sacramento bingo session proved to be a pretty good "little bit." The charity bingo session, sponsored by the local Elks Lodge, helped raise about $1,500 towards the medical expenses for Michae, a local 15-year old in line for a heart transplant.

"Our goal is to raise $100,000," said Catie Gustin, a friend of Michael's family and chief fundraiser for the River City High student's cause. "It is going to take a lot of fundraisers like this one. So far, we have raised under $9,000."

The bingo games for Michael at the Elks Lodge drew a strong turnout.

"I think Michael was shocked at how many people came out and played for him," said Gustin.

But the boy is in something of a race against time. A similar heart problem claimed his father's life. Michael's condition hasn't yet deteriorated enough to make him a priority to receive a donated heart, but when he needs the transplant, he needs to have the money ready, said Gustin.

She became involved after Michael's mother asked for her fundraising help. Gustin is a local Safeway employee, and had come to know the family through their visits to the store.

"I'm a grocery checker at Safeway, and she's a customer," said Gustin. "I watched this kid grow up, and now I'm watching him die. I just couldn't stand back and let that happen."

Nine thousand dollars down; ninety-one thousand to go.

Anyone interested in helping Gustin to raise money can call her at (916) 392-3007.

Financial donations can be made at any Wells Fargo branch. They can be paid to trust account #1044101069, and checks made out to "COTA for Michael."

Cabaldon, Kanowsky come up shy in races for regional office

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

CHRISTOPHER CABALDON

Not this time.

Two prominent West Sacramentans who campaigned for regional office put up a respectable fight at the ballot box yesterday, but each fell short of the goal.

Christopher Cabaldon placed second in a three-way race for the Democratic nomination in the California Assembly's eighth district, and Helen M. Kanowsky took second in a two-way contest for Yolo County Clerk/Recorder.

Cabaldon, a West Sacramento city council member and past mayor, took his hometown's precincts but didn't do as well in other parts of the eighth assembly district, which includes most of Solano and Yolo counties. With 97.3 percent of the district's precincts reporting late last night, he showed 31.1 percent of the votes. Lois Wolk, a Yolo County supervisor from Davis, led the race with 41.4 percent of the votes.

Wolk, a current county supervisor, had been endorsed by much of the regional Democratic establishment.

Solano County's Stephen M. Hardy placed third, with 27.5 percent of the votes.

The apparent winner of that Democratic contest – Wolk – has the inside track for November's general election for the assembly seat, since the district is largely-Democratic. She will face John R. Munn, a Davis resident and the unopposed Republican nominee, for the seat.

The eighth district assembly seat opened up when current assemblywoman Helen Thomson of Davis was "termed out" of the seat by term limit laws. Denied a chance for another assembly term, Thomson yesterday ran for the Yolo County supervisor's seat in the county's second district, and cruised to a victory in her three-way race with 57.4 percent of the vote.

Helen Kanowsky, West Sacramento's city clerk virtually since the city formed in 1987, ran for the Yolo County Clerk/Recorder's position against that office's current chief deputy clerk, Freddie Oakley. Kanowsky ran as an outsider hoping to pursue technological change in the elections department and in document recording at the county office. Current clerk/recorder Tony Bernhard chose not to seek another term, and endorsed Oakley.

Like Cabaldon, Kanowsky fared well in West Sacramento's ballot boxes, but came out second-best in the rest of the county. Oakley won the race with 58.4 percent of the votes, or 16,410 votes. Kanowsky took 41.5 percent of the votes, or 11,670 ballots cast. All of the precincts had been counted for these unofficial Yolo County results.

"I feel good about the numbers," commented Kanowsky last night after her defeat. "It's not a landslide on (Oakley's) part. Considering that I started out behind all the way, I did well. I had a lot of support."

Kanowsky said she will be pleased to return to her city clerk's job – which is not an elected position – instead of moving to the county offices in Woodland.

"I'll stay where I am," she said. "I'm happy to stay here."

Elsewhere in the county, challenger Frank Sieferman, Jr., upset incumbent Yolo County Supervisor Tom Stallard for the District 3 elections. Sieferman took 52.2 percent of the votes to Stallard's 47.7 percent, meaning there will be another new face on the county board of supervisors.

West Sacramento had no city council seats, school board seats or local measures on yesterday's ballot. Local offices will be on the ballot in November.

City, port mull potential concrete-casting facility

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

A new development proposal may once again spur a debate on land uses at the Port of Sacramento.

The port – a fairly close neighbor to some of West Sacramento's residential districts – has received an offer from a company chosen to build the San Francisco Bay Area's new Bay Bridge, connecting the cities of San Francisco and Oakland. The firm, Kiewit Pacific, would use about sixty acres of land in the city's Southport area to "pre-cast" concrete sections of the bridge.

The firm is partnered in billion-dollar contract to build part of the eastern span of a new Bay Bridge. The entire bridge project, at $2.6 billion, is the most expensive public works project in state history. The new Bay Bridge is intended to be much more seismically safe than the old one, built in the 1930s.

"They would be making 750-ton, 30-foot by 70-foot bridge sections, letting them cure on site, and shipping them on barges to the Bay Area," said Steve Patek, West Sacramento's director of community development.

The manufacturing facility would be located in an area zoned for "water-related industrial use." The site is located in the city's Southport area, south of the barge canal, north of Southport Parkway and west of the remnants of Lake Washington.

The company hopes to begin operations this year, in what is expected to be a three-year bridge-building project.

The city planning commission is slated to deal with a disagreement over the zoning issues at its March 14 meeting. Patek ruled that the bridge construction facility doesn't fit within the land uses specified in the land's zoning, and would require a "conditional use permit" to be approved at the discretion of city officials.

The Port of Sacramento has protested that decision, filing an appeal for the planning commission to deal with. A ruling by the city that the plant is an allowed use at the "water-related industrial" site would eliminate the need for city approval.

"They're arguing that there's a use in the zoning matrix called 'building material manufacturing,' and that this fits in that category," said Patek.

The planning commission meets in public at 6 p.m. March 14 at City Hall, 1350 Halyard Dr.

The port has recently attracted static from some neighbors and city officials as it entertained proposals for tenants such as gas-fired power plants, an ethanol-producing plant, and a concrete and asphalt production plant. Historically, the West Sacramento-based port has traded in the shipping of agriculture-related bulk cargoes such as rice, grains, wood chips, logs and fertilizers.

Naming library's best 'friend'

By Phyllis Runyan

DALE GILLIARD

W. Sacto's Librarian

At their annual dinner meeting on February 26th, the East Yolo Friends of the Library named Dale Gilliard as their "Friend of the Year".

Gilliard has been the regional librarian for West Sacramento's Arthur F. Turner Library for five years, and in that time, he has been more than just a "friend" to the library and to the Friends of the Library group. He has worked constantly to make the library a community asset with expanded collections and services, and he has also been a big help to the Friends in numerous other ways.

Also at the dinner meeting, the present slate of officers was unanimously re-elected for another term. Serving again will be Wes Beers, president; Kristi Holton, vice president; Su Sesso, secretary; and Larry Wyneken, treasurer.

The Executive Board of the Friends of the Library meets every 4th Wednesday of the month at 5:30 p.m. in the library meeting room. The meeting is open to all interested people.

Council to push child care

West Sacramento city council member Oscar Villegas reports that on Feb. 20, the council voted to support a child care proposal he initiated.

"Child care is an essential part of a community, and it's time our community began to take bold steps to increase the availability of quality child care programs," commented Villegas. He said that a 1999 report showed a shortfall of licensed child care spaces for nearly a thousand local children.

The council's action was to study a possible child care impact fee, pursue a market-rate child care for preschool children at Sam Combs Park, work with the local school district on child care options and on providing daycare at the planned Bridgeway Island School, solicit proposals for child care programs on city land at 5th and C streets, and investigate providing city employees with discounts for using city-sponsored child care.

Is the difference between the sexes underrated?

Are men and women really all that different? Well, a longtime News-Ledger reader assures me they are and he submitted the following proof:

Money: When it comes to money, a man will pay $10 for a $5 item he really needs. A woman, however, will pay $5 for a $10 item that she doesn't actually need if it's on sale.

Bathrooms: A man has six items in his bathroom (toothbrush and toothpaste, shaving cream, razor, a bar of soap, and a towel he borrowed from a motel. A typical woman's bathroom, however, averages about 337 items, of which a normal man can only identify about 20.

Arguments: A woman always has the last word in any argument. And anything a man says after that last word is simply the beginning of a new argument.

The future: A woman worries about the future until she gets a husband. A man never worries about the future until he gets a wife.

Success: A successful man is one who makes more money than his wife can spend. A successful woman is one who can easily locate such a man.

Marriage: A woman marries a man expecting he will change, but he doesn't. A man marries a woman expecting that she won't change, but she does.

Dressing up: A woman will dress up to go shopping, to water the plants, to empty the trash, to answer the phone, to read a book, and to get the mail. A man will dress up only for weddings and funerals.

Natural: Men wake up as good-looking as when they went to bed. Women somehow manage to deteriorate during the night.

Offspring: A woman knows all about her children. She knows about dentist appointments and romances, best friends, favorite books, secret fears and hopes and dreams. A man is only vaguely aware of some short people living in his house.

Mistakes: Any married man should simply forget his mistakes. There's no use in having two people remember the same thing.

And while I'm on the subject of sexist gender differences, here is the meat of an article which appeared in the Washington Post Style Invitation in which it was postulated that the English language should have male and female nouns. Readers were then asked to assign a gender to nouns of their choice and explain their reasoning. A few of the best submissions are as follows:

Swiss army knife: Male, because even though it appears useful for a wide variety of work, it spends most of its time just opening bottles.

Kidneys: Female, because they always go to the bathroom in pairs.

Tire: Male, because it goes bald and often is over-inflated.

Hot air balloon: Male, because to get it to go anywhere you have to light a fire under it...and, of course, there's the hot air thing.

Sponges: Female, because they are soft and squeezable and retain water.

Web page: Female, because it is always getting hit on.

Shoe: Male, because it is usually unpolished, with its tongue hanging out.

Copier: Female, because once turned off, it takes a while to warm it back up. Because it is an effective reproductive device when the right buttons are pushed. And because it can wreak havoc when the wrong buttons are pushed.

Ziploc bags: Male, because they hold everything in, but you can always see right through them.

Subway: Male, because it uses the same old lines to pick people up.

Hourglass: Female, because over time, the weight shifts to the bottom.

Hammer: Male, because it hasn't evolved that much over the last 5,000 or so years, but it's still often handy to have around.

SPORTS INSIDER

"Kings Korner"

The Sacramento Kings (42-16) are still in their mid-season slump, but are still managing to hang on to their slim one-game lead over the Los Angeles Lakers in the Pacific Division. The Kings are in a five-team race for the Western Conference title. The Kings still have 23 games remaining in the regular season, but only nine of those games are at the friendly confines of the Arco Arena. The Kings will battle with Los Angeles, Dallas, Minnesota and San Antonio for the best record in the West. The winner will have home court advantage throughout the 2002 playoffs.

The Kings suffered an embarrassing 97-86 lost to the Pacers that just happened to be NBC's Sunday game of the week. Then in a back-to-back game on Monday night in Portland the Kings couldn't stop Portland in their 107-95 loss. The problem is bigger than just having one star player in a slump.

The Kings have lost their second consecutive game and four of their past six games. It really seems like the whole team has been playing in a fog.

Chris Webber experienced one of his worst nights as a Kings player. C-Webb managed to score 12 points but he made only 2 of 16 shots from the field and connected on 8 out 14 free throws. The Kings fell into Indiana's half court trap which is to slow the game down by fouling and harassing players until they spend more time arguing with the referee that concentrating on basketball. The Kings must snap out of their slump soon because they will begin a long road trip that will make or break the season.

The Kings will play at home game on Friday, March 8, against Charlotte before they travel to the East Coast to play four games in five nights. This stretch of games will set the tone for the remaining season. The Kings will play back-to-back games in Milwaukee (noon-FOX) on Sunday and then on Monday night against Chicago (5:30 p.m.). The Kings will then enjoy a day off as they travel to play on Wednesday, March 13th in Philadelphia (5 p.m.-ch.31) with another back-to-back game on Thursday night against New York (4:30 p.m.). After this critical road trip, the Kings will still remain on the East Coast to play Toronto (2:30 ? Ch. 31) on Sunday, March 17th.

"NCCA Basketball"

Sacramento will be hosting the first and second rounds of the "Big Dance". The NCAA basketball tournament arrives in Sacramento on Thursday, March 14, and Saturday, March 16, at the friendly confines of the Arco Arena. Some big name college basketball teams have already qualified for the big dance while others are playing in league tournaments to receive an invitation to this year's "Big Dance". The Pac-10 is on the verge of sending six teams to the NCCA Tournament. Oregon (No. 13) won the Pac-10 and could be joined my Cal, USC, Stanford, Arizona, UCLA and/or the winner of the Pac-10 tournament this weekend in L.A. The NCAA could send a couple of these Pac-10 teams to compete here in the Capitol City. The Tournament committee will make their final selections to the 65-team tournament on Sunday, March 10.

"World Cup Soccer"

The U.S.A. looked very good last Saturday in Seattle with their 4-0 victory over the Honduras national team. The friendly match is just the beginning of six weeks of intense training for the United States as they prepare for the World Cup in Japan/S.Korea. The U.S. will open the World Cup tournament on June 5th against Portugal in Suwon, South Korea.

Next up for the U.S. team is another friendly this Sunday, March 10th against Ecuador in Alabama and then the Red/White/Blue will travel to Rostock, Germany to play the German national team on March 27th. The U.S.A. also added another game to their schedule. The U.S. will play against Mexico on April 3rd in Denver.

"Local Boxing News"

Promoter Don Chargin has great boxing show lined up for Friday, March 8th at the Feather Falls Casino. The main event will pit West Sacramento's Juan Lazcano (28-2-1, 21 KO's) against a tough kid out of Mexico, Julio Sanchez (28-7, 18 KO's). The semi-main event will be a war featuring Carlos Borjorquez (17-3-4, 12 KO's) against Norberto Sandoval (15-5, 12 KO's). The preliminary bouts will feature local boxing talent that includes Michael Simms, Hildo Silva, Eric Regan, Liza Olson and the pro debut of Danny Savala. Tickets are priced at $30, $35, $40, and $45 and can be purchased at the door.

Raider tennis wins

The River City High School tennis team swept all three of its matches last week, including the very important league opener at Marysville on Thursday. The victories improved the Raiders' 2002 overall record to 7 wins and no losses.

Against the host Indians in the first Golden Empire League West contest of the young season, R.C. was led by girls singles players Keonakone Lattasima (6-0,62 at #1) and Tanna Phouanglasy (6-0, 6-3 at #2). The Raiders also swept the day's five doubles matches by a combined score of 50-10. Crystal Koell and Nareeta Singh won 10-0 at #2 girls doubles and teammates Michelle Jones and Kikki Hansen dropped just two games in their 10-2 win at #1 girls doubles. 10-2 was also the score posted by William Clayton and Bhaves Patel in the #2 boys doubles position. Overall on the day, River City won 7 to 2 as boys singles players Sokhear Touch (#1) and Marith Khem (#2) fell in their matches.

In a non-league match last week, the Raiders took on defending Capital Valley Conference champion Natomas and came away with an 8-1 win. Against the Nighthawks, both Touch and Khem earned hard-fought singles victories while the #1 boys doubles team of Tuan Nguyen and Sou Saejao came from behind for a 10-7 win. The mixed doubles pair of Nai Saelee and Danny Beus won impressively 10-2.

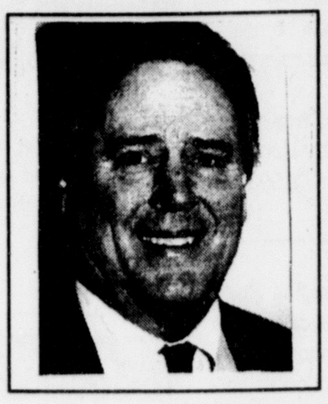
Sales tax bill would backfire, promote sprawl

From Mayor Bill Kristoff



WILLIAM KRISTOFF

Mayor of West Sacramento

The more heard about AB 680 (Steinberg), the worse it sounds.

The city and county of Sacramento recently have been lauded for their magnanimous support of AB 680 as being good for the region even though a recent analysis showed that they both would be losers under the new rules. In fact, they are so supportive that they have contributed over $100,000 to support it, according to sources.

The truth is that both the city and county will actually benefit from this new shuffle of sales tax dollars. Case-in-point, Sacramento County has identified over 70,000 acres of open space designated for urbanization, while the city of Sacramento has plans to greatly expand North Natomas. This will likely turn them into winners since this bill actually rewards population growth. Under AB 680 they will benefit financially for their population spurts at the expense of other cities that have not positioned themselves to reap these proposed new benefits of urban sprawl.

A particularly peculiar element of this legislation is that it repeals a current provision of law that provides that a local agency relocating a "big box" retailer or auto mall away from another local agency must reimburse that agency for the loss of revenue. This law is intended to reduce the "fiscalization of land use." AB 680 is supposed to address "fiscalization of land use" but eliminates this requirement. This is very strange unless you take into account that Sacramento is trying to lure auto malls away from surrounding cities into North Natomas.

Recently, AB 680 was modified during the Assembly session from which it narrowly passed, to allow Yolo County to opt out of this forced sales tax sharing scheme by meeting certain conditions, which were already being met. This was a compromise obviously designed to quiet a large voice of the opposition. However, this bill continues to be divisive and works against regionally acceptable solutions. Mr. Steinberg should take AB 680 back to the drawing board and make use of the better ideas that have been suggested by other local leaders.

AB 680 proposes to shift sales taxes from jurisdictions that produce it to those that have generated the biggest populations. This bill actually rewards large population increases -- the very essence of sprawl. This bill is very counterproductive to its stated goal.

AB 680 should be withdrawn.

Letters to the Editor

Port and casino realities

West Sacramento is an industrial city. The area before incorporation was an industrial area for many decades. The Port District has been here for decades (I first lived here in the 1950s and my back fence adjoined Port District land). All of these developments and land uses are big, obvious, and make no attempt to hide themselves. People who cannot abide such realities should choose residential areas more to their liking.

The Indian Gaming Regulation Act is the first substantive legislation to give American Indians hope of making useful amounts of money on their own land. If they use the Act to part the European from his money (and even some commercial acreage), isn't it really just a poetic turning of the tables? What are we afraid of? That they'll beat us at our own money-making, land acquisition, and development games?

As for social problems connected with the projected casino, how many prostitutes, pimps, or impoverished gamblers do we see wandering the roads around Cache Creek? Yes, the road had to be improved to handle the traffic, but the road wasn't much of a road to start with (albeit better than the dirt/gravel road of my childhood).

School Board not responsive

(The following statement was made to the WUSD School Board at their February 28, 2002 meeting.)

I'm a mom who lives in Bridgeway Island and I am representing West Sacramento Quality Urbanization & Development. I spoke at your December 13, 2001 school board meeting and I addressed some issues which still haven't received answers. My first issue concerned the Port and the future effects it could have on school children. I addressed the possibility of the Port housing an ethanol plant, a cement/asphalt plant, and a 37-acre oil tank farm on its land. I thought that you were going to keep apprised of the "happenings" at the Port; however, I didn't see any of your representatives at the January or February Port Commission meetings. Are you aware that the Port is seeking a map adjustment in the Seaway International Trade Center which will bring industrial uses to within 135 feet of Southport Elementary School? Hopefully, you will send a representative to the March Port Commission meeting, and I would also urge you to speak out for our school children in this district, since I am hoping that's why each one of you has taken a position on the school board.

I also addressed the issue of lack of non low-income preschools in West Sacramento. I was dismayed to read your minutes from that meeting stating that I said low-income preschools, when in fact I said non low-income preschools. With all of the new housing in Bridgeway Island, the income needed to buy a home automatically disqualified us for the majority of the preschools in town. You told me to speak to Michelle Doiron; however, she handles low-income pre-schools, which is not what I qualify for. We are faced with getting on the waiting list at James Marshall Preschool with no immediate guarantee of a space opening up, or sending our children to other preschools in Davis, Sacramento, and surrounding cities. With the emphasis on allowing equal access to all students, the need to raise test scores, and increased academic achievement, I ask that you not forget the preschool children from the middle socio-economic status. Everyone I talk to agrees that you should build the preschool at the Bridgeway Island School site.

KEMPSTER ©THE CHARLOTTE OBSERVER 2002
THE EUROPEANS AGAIN PROTESTED BUSH'S UNILATERALISM, BUT POLLS SUPPORT THIS LATEST MOVE AGAINST THE FIGURE SKATING JUDGES!

A mom from my mom's group came to speak at the last school board meeting to express her concerns regarding preschools and kindergarten classes, and she was told that someone would get back to her since the issues could not be resolved during that school board meeting. She continues to wait for a response. At the meeting, she was told that she had misinformation, and since no one from your entity has responded to her, it makes it look like she is either correct in her assumption, or that you did not take what she said as important. In the meantime, she is putting her house up for sale, and she has put a bid on a house in a community where education is a number one priority.

Who will get into touch with us, and when can we expect answers to all of our concerns?

DINING, TRAVEL & ENTERTAINMENT

Columnist Teddi Boylan brings you her recommendations of places to dine and places to visit in the greater West Sacramento area. Her travels include both stops at our advertisers' establishments and other institutions. Enjoy!

Talk about "getting a head start on things": I received a Gastronome newsletter from Gorman's Restaurant in Yolo yesterday, and they say they are now taking reservations for New Year's Eve, 2003. It seems that without any advertising, they were filled up last New Year's, and some latecomers couldn't get in. For $50 per person, it's all you can eat and drink of the bubbly stuff, but you have to reserve well in advance.

Also, did you know they will open any bottle of wine on their wine list for you to try at no obligation to you? Having lived in Napa Valley for so long, this policy floors me. Down in the valley, this could never happen. You can also buy a glass of wine if you want, even if it's not on their "by the glass" list.

That's amazing. My friends Linda and Dan Darvisian went to Gorman's for their anniversary, and haven't stopped praising the atmosphere and food that made that night extra special. Graham (your chef) offers this simple recipe for you to try at home:

WINTER CORN & CELERY ROOT MEDLEY (serves two)

2 ears fresh corn on cob, shucked

One knob of celery root (celeriac), diced to same size as corn kernels

2 tablespoons kosher salt

1 teaspoon white pepper (black may be substituted)

2 tablespoons unsalted butter

1 tablespoon olive oil

Chicken or veg. Stock, as needed

In a large pan (at least 8 inches), melt butter and add the olive oil over medium heat until butter starts to bubble. Add the celery root and coat evenly with fat in the pan, then add half the salt. After five minutes, add corn and continue to cook, adding more salt to taste. If the vegetables start to stick to the pan, add the chicken or vegetable stock to unstick (also called "glazing") the vegetables. White pepper at the end – but not too much – will give some heat to the dish. White pepper is hotter but not as bitter as black pepper.

Cook until vegetables begin to turn brown, which says they are releasing sugars and will be sweet and savory. At the restaurant, they add fresh thyme at the end. Delicious! Bon appetit!

Gorman's Fine Food and Provisions, I-5 and Yolo exit, Yolo. (530) 662-6889.

Staying in the Woodland/Yolo area, we advance to Morrision's.

I already told you about their scrumptious Easter Sunday brunch, and I hope you made your reservations, as they're filling up fast. This is a very active restaurant:

March 17, Corned Beef & Cabbage Dinner

March 27, Chardonnay tasting

March 31, Easter brunch

April 22-26, secretary's week

April 26-7, Friday & Saturday, Scottish foods in honor of the 126th annual Scottish Games & Clan Gathering, along with Scotch tasting. Morrisons has over 65 whiskeys on the menu, featuring over 30 single malt Scotches. And "Irish Wednesdays" in March, with chefs Stephanie and Michael Doyle; lamb shank Sundays in April.

Morrisions Upstairs/Downstairs, 428 ½ First St., Woodland; 530-666-6176.

One of the more popular casinos in the Reno area has refused to take two groups of senior citizens' buses. Their reason is that "seniors don't use their players' cards, and therefore we can't track their spending." I would suggest their marketing people look around. If you remove everyone over age 55 from your establishment, you will have a lot of empty space. This definitely sounds like age discrimination to me. You forget those seniors' nickels and dimes built your gaming establishment.

You know who you are, and I certainly hope you rethink this policy. Don't bite the hand that feeds you.

Speaking of gambling junkets, on March 14, Moe Thompson of "Steppin' Out With Moe" will be taking her fun bus to the Cal Neva in Reno. Cost is $20, and you get back $10 in cash and a $3 food coupon. Call Moe at 373-0065. If you miss this one, she goes to the El Dorado on April 11. Same price, same bonus.

I do believe the proponents of the new casino in West Sacramento must know that not everyone has a computer and e-mail, so this is a little reminder for them:

Where there is email, there's a computer.

Where there is a computer, there is a telephone.

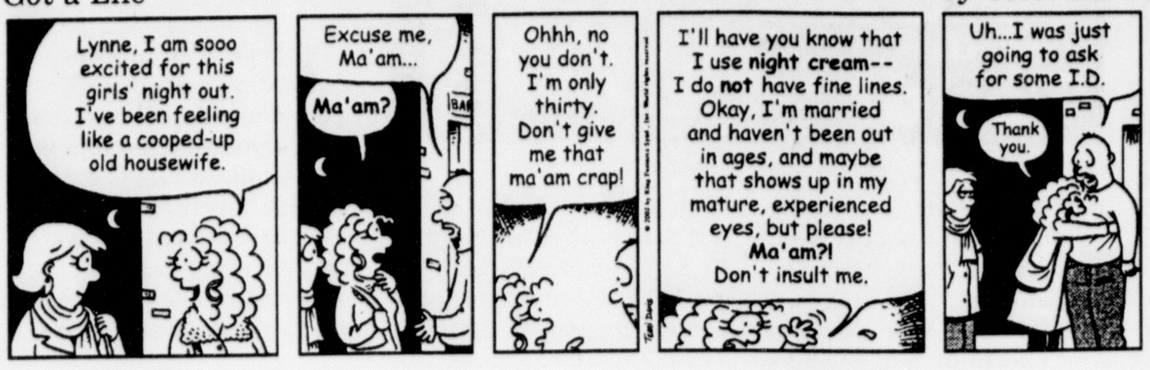
Got a Life

by Terri Davis



Lynne, I am sooo excited for this girls' night out. I've been feeling like a cooped-up old housewife.
Excuse me, Ma'am...
Ma'am?
Ohhh, no you don't. I'm only thirty. Don't give me that ma'am crap!
I'll have you know that I use night cream-- I do not have fine lines. Okay, I'm married and haven't been out in ages, and maybe that shows up in my mature, experienced eyes, but please! Ma'am?! Don't insult me.
Uh...I was just going to ask for some I.D.
Thank you.

Where Arbor Day comes from

Diane Virdee is a West Sacramento resident and certified arborist. She will write from time to time on issues concerning trees and their place in the community.

By Diane Virdee

With the coming of spring, states all across the country will be celebrating Arbor Day.

It was all started over 100 years ago, in Nebraska, by J. Sterling Morton, a prominent citizen, political leader and landowner. In 1872, he proposed that a million trees be planted in Nebraska. So it happened – about a million trees were planted across that vast prairie land, mostly by farmers, in order to establish orchards, provide shade, and generally beautify the land.

Ten years later, Cincinatti, Ohio, followed with tree-planting in a park. And so it spread – not only across the United States, but around the world. Today, on Arbor Day, communities from Korea, India, and Mexico to California will hold annual tree planting celebrations, sharing with their children the importance of trees for all communities.

Each state has designated a specific date for Arbor Day, as well as a specific tree for the state. It is celebrated the last Friday in April by many states, but not by all. California has set aside the entire week of March 7-14 (our milder climate provides us the opportunity to get our planting in a little earlier; and the earlier, the better). Our state tree is our native California redwood – the tallest and most massive living thing on the planet earth.

In 2001, the National Arbor Day Foundation oversaw the election of a national tree from many candidates, including the state trees of all 50 states. Nearly a half-million votes were cast – over 100,000 votes for the oak, which won. The top five choices were the oak, redwood, maple, pine and dogwood. It is the first time that a national symbol was picked by a vote of the people.

The National Arbor Day Foundation has created a new Web site for kids to learn more about trees and Arbor Day. There are hands-on activities, fun and games, and educational challenges which are sure to be fun for the kids and a big help for teachers and leaders of youth groups.

The West Side Auto Camp has just installed what is known to be the latest improvement in gasoline pumps, namely, the "Visco" pump. In other words, the "Viso" pump shows the customer exactly how much gasoline he is receiving from a large glass gauge installed at the top of the pump and operated through air pressure in the tank that is buried under the surface of the ground. McNally & Partridge contemplate many other improvements during the spring and have installed gates of a sliding character around their camp grounds. Another improvement that will soon be added to the camp is a lunch room and community kitchen where a first class chef will be employed on and after March 1st.

At the West Sacramento Auto Camp yesterday a baby boy was born to Mrs. J. W. Wood. Dr. Burden of Sacramento attended the lady, who is reported to be getting along splendidly, as well as her baby. The Wood family have been residing at the camp for several months.

SALESMEN ARE GETTING BUSY ON WESTGATE PROPERTIES

G. Garnett, under the direction of H. Judson, has been employing salesmen during the past week to work on the sales of properties in Westgate under the McAnulty Brothers.

Yesterday Mr. McAnulty was in San Francisco to finish up some financial transactions that needed his attention.

Mr. Judson has been placed in charge of the sales force and under him Mr. Garnett is employing men who can explain the advantages of home owning in the district.

One home has already been started and during the next week a start is expected to be made on several which will be the first of fifteen for which plans have been drawn and specifications written.

Work on these fifteen other homes will be started the early part of next week and it is reported that some sales have already been made.

When the weather clears and the force gets into action, building operations will be pushed as fast as men can work.

February 25, 1925.

Mr. P. A. Fitzgerald, Editor of Independent-Leader, Broderick, Calif.

Dear Mr. Fitzgerald: I would be pleased if you would give the following letter on the Chinese question space in your paper at your convenience.

I am pleased at your earnest endeavors to keep the name of our town free from the terrible mess that has located itself at our very door, but, Mr. Fitzgerald, I am sorry to say that we will have to claim our part of it, for located in our town, we have one of the many of these places, running wide open. It is located in the old Warring property at Second and Harriett street, in the building that was operated as a legitimate business, a garage.

The advent of this place without a word of resentment, only means that it will be but a short while and we will have the conditions of a year ago back in our business district, along with the many others at the M street bridge.

It is pitiful to see the feeble attempt made by our authorities in trying to stop the crime that is being committed within our midst by searching these frequenters of these gambling holes. Why do they not start at the base of the trouble if they wish to stop it instead of at the top of it?

Do you suppose that these thousands that visit this vicinity would be there every day if it were not for the gambling houses? Well why try to put it over on the public by searching these patrons and practically on the other hand sanction the gambling that brings them to this county?

When conditions have reached the stage that they have now that our children, mothers and sisters cannot travel a public highway in safety, it is time for us who have a little respect for our community to let our voices be heard and try and make our town a place where we can raise our children decently, without fear of submitting them to insult and injury.

Do you realize that it is unsafe for the young women of this town, who are required to attend high school in Woodland, to go to the M street bridge in order that they may take the electric cars to and from school without the escort of some person to protect them from insult at the hands of this trash that is attracted here by these gambling holes. Probably the school authorities might be asked to use their power to hasten a cleanup of this mess in eastern Yolo county.

There is little or no excuse for our authorities not being able to obtain necessary evidence on these places at present, for they bar no visitors. The above excuse was offered when we asked action in the cleaning up of this undesirable condition of a year ago.

It seems that our officials can enforce the law when they care to, for only a few days ago all the merchandise slot machines in the soft drink establishments and barber shops were ordered out and they were taken out. It seems to me they play favorites, or why should white men, who are earning a living in our town, men who are paying taxes here, be compelled to obey the laws and others who do not have interests in our town be permitted to carry on as they see fit.

Thanking you to give this article space in your paper in hopes that it will awaken others of our citizens to ask that a better condition be given to the people of this section of the country, I remain,

Respectfully,
R. P. PEEK.

STOUTENBURG PLACED UNDER ARREST FOR SALE OF YEN SHEE

John Stoutenberg, age 73, carrying papers showing he was appointed as an acting constable of Yolo county, on May 13, 1924, was arrested at his home in Washington yesterday afternoon by James E. Brown and Thomas R. Cassady, federal narcotic agents, on a charge of possessing and selling narcotics.

Stoutenberg was booked at the police station yesterday for violation of the Harrison narcotic law and was placed in the city jail.

Another translation of the Bible has been made, leaving out everything in relation to whiskey.

First thing we know they will be leaving out everything relating to Christ.

They are also known for slippery actions.

Washington Boosters' Club Gives Serious Consideration to Reports of Gambling Near M Street Bridge

At the meeting of the Washington Boosters' Club, last Tuesday evening, two principal subjects were under consideration.

The first and principal subject was the filling of the town, as suggested in the Independent in its issue of Feb. 20th.

Although the taxpayers of the community see the necessity of this work and are deeply interested in it, they fail, apparently, to combine in a united effort for such betterment.

The prospect of filling the town at this time seems the final move in the improvement of real estate value and it is especially good because in the near future there will be a suction dredger placed in the river to fill the borrow pit north of the Sacramento Northern Railway embankment.

This filling will be done so that the roadway west from the M street bridge can be built by the State Highway Commission to connect with the state highway in West Sacramento through a subway that will be jointly constructed by Yolo county, the State Highway Commission and the Sacramento Northern Railway.

It would appear that many interested parties would be glad to aid in the filling of streets, lots and other property within the limits of the town of Washington; that is to say, from Margaret street north to Rocky Point and from the levee as far west as Eighth street.

A great and necessary improvement confronts those who are interested in navigation in the Sacramento river. The bed of the stream must be cleared by some interests to preserve navigation during the coming summer. The great and serious problem is how to dispose of the material that must be taken out of the bed of the stream to help navigation.

That material cannot be dumped in on Sacramento city, but it could be dumped or pumped into the town of Washington to raise the level of the lots, to raise the level of the streets and to slope the grade from the Front street levee in a gradual declination to a point as far west as Eighth street.

Of course, it would be necessary for every home owner to raise his premises so that the work could be done but surely the property owners would be glad to stand for that if the streets and vacant lots are filled without cost to the people.

If this filling were done within the town of Washington, it is safe to say that property values would be doubled immediately and would even reach to comparative values with properties situated similarly in Sacramento city.

Many corporations are interested in the preservation of navigation of the Sacramento river fronting Sacramento city and as far south as Y street.

The Southern Pacific Co. is interested. The Sacramento-Northern Railway Co. is interested. The Sacramento and San Joaquin Drainage District is interested. Sacramento city proper is interested. The Sacramento Transportation Co. is interested. The state government is interested and the federal government is anxious to do anything for the preservation of navigation.

A combination of these interests could employ a suction dredger to dredge the bed of the Sacramento river and dispose of the filling in the town of Washington, provided the property owners would go to the expense of raising their homes.

The members of the Boosters' Club decided to talk this matter over with their friends, their neighbors and other people who are interested in the subject.

But apparently the members of the Washington Boosters' Club are more interested in the Chinese gambling games that are being conducted near the M street bridge. More time was devoted to that subject than was devoted to the filling of the town.

Ray Peek introduced the subject, calling attention to the deplorable conditions that prevail, especially because children of the town, who are forced to attend the high school in Woodland must pass through that locality at least twice a day.

On motion made by Peek and seconded by Mrs. McNevin, it was decided that the secretary should communicate with the County Superintendent of Schools, Miss Harriett Lee, and with District Attorney Geo. T. Kern, calling attention to these conditions. The secretary, Mrs. H. Palm, was instructed to write to both of the county officials explaining the desires of the Boosters' Club and complaining of the conditions that prevail.

Ed F. Curry was a visitor at the club and explained himself in an open way to complain of Sheriff Monroe. He said that about a week ago he was on his way to the blacksmith shop and saw the sheriff in an automobile with a Chinaman at Third and Harriett streets.

Calling Curry to the automobile, Sheriff Monroe said to him:

"Ed, I told these Chinamen they cannot operate roulette wheels or faro banks, but they can go ahead with their own games as Chinamen have done up to now."

The above information was voluntarily offered by Ed Curry but confirmation of it could not be secured yesterday from Sheriff Monroe.

It was explained by the writer, P. A. Fitzgerald, that county authorities have limits to their actions in enter-hand, an article relating to the passage of an ordinance by the supervisors of Yolo county, at the request of Sheriff Monroe, forbidding the entrance of American men or boys into places of gambling conducted by Chinese and making such entrance a misdemeanor subject to fine or imprisonment.

The article above mentioned and published in the Woodland Democrat was cited only as a sample of the detrimental publicity which the Woodland papers have been lavishing on the town of Washington for many weeks past.

The daily papers of Woodland seem to take particular delight casting odium on the town of Washington and on the people of Washington. Articles have been written not alone relating facts but have been intermixed with vitriol and bitterness towards the people of Washington.

And it is these articles that have been drawing attention of the people of this section of the state to the games that Chinese conduct in the vicinity of the M street bridge and outside the town limits of the town of Washington.

In addition, attention was drawn by the writer to the fact that some muttonhead had communicated the proceedings of the Boosters' Club to the Sacramento Bee and got his wires so badly crossed that the Bee, too, delivered a broadside discrediting the town and the people of the community.

Neither Sacramento nor Woodland can cast any rocks at Washington. Only a few days ago an opium den was discovered near Second and L streets in Sacramento. At least thirty gambling games are running continually in Sacramento and a police force of 100 men has not been able to stop them. But the Sacramento Bee is careful to mention nothing of a detrimental character that occurs in the Chinatown of Sacramento because its columns are filled with the advertising of Chinese stores, Chinese butcher shops and other Chinese patrons.

Woodland can't brag of purity, morality or the exclusion of gambling. Several spirited poker games are going continually at the county seat and although there are four policemen enforcing the law, the games continue.

Unfortunately Washington has but one peace officer, Constable Wilson. His salary is $70 per month and to make a living for his family, he must work at something besides the pittance he receives for his work as constable.

Yet some people expect him to devote all his time to running down Chinamen, dope fiends and other vicious characters who are driven across the bridge by the Sacramento police force every morning after being liberated from the city jail.

Prior to the appointment of Wilson as constable, on January 6th, Constable Buckingham, now supervisor, did everything within his power to suppress the vicious element that crosses the bridges from Sacramento. He succeeded in a fair way, but yet he could not prevent Chinese who are being forced out of Sacramento from renting land or building houses where they will gamble in spite of h—— and high water.

At the Boosters' Club last Tuesday evening, a spirited discussion was conducted along these lines which resulted in the action of the club instructing its secretary to write to District Attorney Kern and School Superintendent Miss Harriett Lee.

T. D. M. Slaven, a publicity agent for the McAnulty Brothers, attended the meeting also last Tuesday evening and explained what was proposed to be done in Westgate during the coming near future. He explained that a big demand for lots and homes is being experienced and that the town would have a population of 10,000 inhabitants within the next ten years. He also explained that there is a possibility of securing a sugar refinery for that community because already this year 25,000 acres of beets have been pledged by farmers of the district and surrounding country to the Spreckels industry of San Francisco and Crockett.

Slaven also explained that the McAnulty Brothers deplored gambling conditions in the vicinity of the M street bridge.

RICHFIELD OIL COMPANY PURCHASED DEPOT SITE HERE

In the vicinity of West Sacramento headquarters, or to be more specific, between the old Kripp home and the Sacramento river, the Richfield Oil Company has purchased ten acres on which the corporation is about to establish a supply depot for oils, gasoline and other products.

This property was formerly owned by a box and barrel company, but that industry failed a few years ago, leaving the land vacant since that time.

It is understood that the Richfield Company will install great storage tanks and will have everything of modern character to supply service stations and individuals for the surrounding country.

The site is convenient to both rail and water. It stands on the edge of the Sacramento river a few hundred feet north of the rice mills. A railroad track is to be extended to the location and a force of men will be kept constantly at work looking after the interests of the concern.

Up to the present time the affairs of the Richfield Corporation have been cared for by J. W. Baughman of Sacramento, but it is understood now that employes will be placed in charge not only to conduct the plant, but to push sales and supply depots for the distribution of their products.

DIRECTORS OF CAMP OWNERS ASSOCIATION MEET HERE

At the West Sacramento Camp during four days of the past week, directors of the Camp Owners' Ass'n. of the State of California were entertained at the West Sacramento Auto Camp by Mr. and Mrs. Joe Pereira.

Following the transaction of business on Wednesday evening, a magnificent banquet was prepared by Mrs. Pereira for the visiting directors. A general good time was had by those participating in the meeting and the climax in the banquet on Wednesday evening was a wonderful finish to a session of business and pleasure on the part of the directors.

It is understood that the directors assembled to take part in a discussion of laws that are now before the legislature, to promote those they believe to be worthy and to ask the elimination of those they believe to be vicious.

At any rate, the convention wound up in a hearty way when the assembled officials dispersed to their homes on Wednesday evening and Thursday morning.

Such as: where is your gaming management going to be coming from? Which comes first, the casino or the hotel? Where will your employment office be located? Will you have your own security force, as well as the local police/ Will you have bingo games? Will you have disabled parking? Lastly, are you planning to serve alcohol at the casino?

of El Capitan in Yosemite Valley in 1958, which opened the Golden Age of big wall climbing in America. Not content to rest on the reputation he made early in his career, he went on to forge scores of first ascents in Yosemite Valley and throughout the Sierras. Among them were the East Face of Washington Column, the South Face of Mt. Watkins, the South Face of Half Dome, and the Porcelain Wall.

Warren's classic 1975 book, Downward Bound, has become a much sought after guide by young climbers for its irreverent attitude toward the mountaineering establishment. Warren's approach was to encourage new climbers to forge their own techniques and their own sense of freedom in how they climb.

A memorial service will be held for Warren on Sunday, March 10th, from noon until 4 p.m. in West Sacramento at the VFW Hall, 905 Drever Street.

'Mystical, dreamlike' photos on display

By Betty Fairbairn Sokolich

The Pitt Turner photographs on display at the Arthur F. Turner Library show an interesting perspective of his life experiences. He is attracted to a variety of subjects from the organic to the fate of some of man's leftovers as nature takes over the discards. Turner is a student who has absorbed a lot of knowledge about the art of photography and how to use the techniques of composing, printing, and presenting a photo to express his wide curiosity about the world around him. His photos call for a close scrutiny of the total effect he achieves, for instance, utilizing infrared to produce the different atmospheric vision possible with the use of the infrared filters, which gives a kind of mysterious, other worldly scene. "Moon over McKinley", "Park Place", and "Black Pool" have that mystical, almost dreamlike quality. "Moon Over McKinley", shot during the day with an infrared filter, looks like midnight. "Black Pool" shows a lagoon with water so deep there is no fathoming the depth. The contrasts of the dark pond and the background emphasizes the apparent deepness of the water as an intriguing beam of sunlight pinpoints the center of interest.

A low viewpoint and a timed exposure has produced a dramatic view of Sacramento with strong contrasts in "City Night": the one building is so brilliantly lit next to the less lit building and so each compliment each other. "Towers" is a different approach to a cityscape. It is shot from a distance and makes the city less dominant and the surrounding land becomes more important. In "Communication", a mass of telephone wires stringing away from the telephone pole makes a compositional statement about man's use of the environment.

The recent Toys for Tots parade of motor cycles was an opportunity for Turner to take a stunning photo in color of the front of a well cared for "Cycle" used by one of the participants in the parade. The sharpness of detail and colors contributes to the feel of the metal. A surreal photo of train tracks "Trax" in black and white is also fascinating.

A reception for the young artist will be held on March 17th from 4-7 p.m. at the library. The public is cordially invited to attend the reception.
